COUNTY MUSIC FESTIVAL AN OUTSTANDING SUCCESS

Competition Was Keen And Renditions Were Of A High Order—Many Compete.

Keen competition and splendid enthusiasm marked the third musical festival held in Westminster Church, St. Catharines on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 2nd and 3rd. Peter Kennedy, of Toronto, adjudicator, passed on some very helpful instructions and suggestions to the managers.

youthful participants who show wonderful possibilities. He stated that it was his hope that the young people of today should never give up their enthusiasm but keep at it as it was only continuous practice which made for perfect performance. The fingers would obey the ruling of the mind if they were trained sufficiently so that eventually the mind and body would be in perfect union.

The boys harmonica band given during Wednesday afternoon's program won compliment particularly. Here was great opportunity for youthful players to secure a basic training

Grimsby Sales And Service Opens Garage And Service Station

By J. O. L.

Young Benny Heaslip, St. Anne's, has moved to Grimsby and well known in the South West for his prowess as a the-

In this new venture he is joined by his brother Charlie whose claim to fame is that he once ran an automobile from Hamilton to St. Anna on a single dry cell telephone battery, and Carl Branton, the only mechanic in the province that was ever known to be able to keep a 30 year old Ford and a Waterbury watch running continuously for 24 hours without a stop.

Charlie Henslip brings to the new firm a wealth of experience in auto mobile and radio electrical work and he will have charge of the battery and electric department.

Branton for many years has been recognized as one of the best motor mechanics in the district and his legion of friends will be pleased to learn

Benny of course will look after the business end of the firm and you can rest assured that your demands for service will be well and fully attended to.

The Independent business is a new firm which will be known as Grimby Sales and Service, best wishes for their success. The firm is located in the garage building at 107 Main street west and the phone number is 333-1111.

TOOTH SHOTS TORONTO DRUGGIST

Wounded in Leg Victim
Grapples With Young
Thug in Hold-Up.

Toronto.—A Summerhill Avenue druggist was shot in his thigh by a 17-year-old bandit Sunday night when he knocked down a gun which was pointed at his chest. The druggist, Albert Marshall, though wounded, grabbed and held his assailant until help arrived. A second youth, aged 16, was captured shortly afterwards.

Less than five minutes after the shot was fired, Albert Elson, 17, of Van Horne Street was arrested in the store. The other lad, Thomas Christie, 16, of MacPherson Avenue, was picked up at his home soon after.

Police state that the two youths rode up to the store on bicycles and as they entered the shop, Elson pulled the gun from his pocket. They both covered their faces with their hands. Elson walked up to the counter, while the other lad stood near the door.

Marshall had always advised his employees in play safe in such an emergency. Faced with it himself he reached out and knocked down the gun. The discharge and the force of the bullet failed to stop him from closing with the youth.

The two rolled on the floor, the wounded druggist keeping a firm hold on the boy bandit despite the wound in his thigh. The glass in a showcase was shattered during the struggle which lasted until Marshall's shouts brought 16-year-old Robert Wilson, 235 Glen Road, into the store. Meanwhile the other youth had made his escape.

Wilson relieved Marshall of his charge and a call was put in for the police.

Almost at the moment that the call was received, Detective Hector Barber, Plainclothesman Clifford Train and P.C. George Crawford were reporting from a call box less than a block away from the store. They were at the scene in less than a minute and had Elson in custody.

Elson, police say, tried to put them off the track by giving wrong information about his companion. The officers made a canvass of the homes of suspects and finally picked up their man.

Marshall meanwhile was taken to the General Hospital, in addition to the bullet wound in his thigh he has superficial cuts on his wrist from the show case glass and an injury to his eye. His condition is reported as good.

Ontario to Borrow 60 Million Dollars

Bill To Provide For $20,000,000, Jump In Yearly Financing

Toronto.—Sixty million dollars is the amount stipulated in the province's annual borrowing bill, notice of which has been given to the legislature by Premier and Provincial Treasurer Mitchell F. Hepburn.

Half that sum, Mr. Hepburn stated Sunday night, will be ample to provide for the $14,000,000 deficit which has been forecast for the current fiscal year, and for the bank overdrafts with which the treasury will have to contend. The remaining amount will be used to retire maturing obligations.

For years the annual borrowing of other administrations has been "billed" at $40,000,000.

Horses And More Horses

Dublin heads back toward Michigan. Reports from the Michigan department of agriculture indicate that the number of horses in the state increased by 4,000 during the last year. That is the first increase noted since 1917. From the year of the beginning of the world war until last year the number of Michigan horses constantly decreased.

But the village smithy beneath the spreading chestnut tree now is a garage and the farm horse is having all sorts of trouble to get his shoes fitted. One of Michigan's leading farmers this Spring reported trying for a week to get an itinerant horseshoer to come to his farm and finally braved the peril of the coast highway to drive his team six miles to a blacksmith shop, only to find no horseshoer.—Detroit News.

CANADIAN YOUTH HELD AS FRIVOLOUS

F. H. Pickel Declares In House They Do As They Like And Are Beyond Control.

Ottawa.—A criticism of Canadian youth was made in the House of Commons last week by F. H. Pickel (Cons.). During his speech, he called them undisciplined, thinking only of dancing, sport and social affairs. Prefacing his remarks with the statement he might be considered "childish in my old age," Mr. Pickel said there were two major problems in Canada—the youth and the family drivers.

"What is going to become of them?" Mr. Pickel asked, referring to Canadian youth. "There is no discipline among them and I would like to know how you can get along with young people without discipline. That is a first requisite."

"There is no home-life today, absolutely none as a general rule. Children go as they please. You tell them to go home and they go; you tell them to go North and they go South."

Canadian youth, continued Mr. Pickel, focused their attention on dancing, sport and social affairs. Universities had become "athletic recruiting grounds" where the athletic director received more money than professors.

"Look at our newspapers," exclaimed Mr. Pickel, claiming they were "half-filled with sports," with the result the youth read the sport pages and nothing else.

Girls were just as bad as boys in Mr. Pickel's estimation. "One in as bad as the other, you cannot do anything with them."

TODAY IS HERE LET US USE IT

A man must make good or make room—go forward or drop back. No man can stand still in any position. This statement applies to class, and creed, sex or circumstances—no man can stand still.

In an interview with one of the most successful men, the statement was made that not one man in a hundred is successful.

If it is true that clocks watch clock, secretaries fail to remove department heads lack initiative superintendents fall in a rut—if be true, is it not time to think this condition creates for you a that is undeveloped.

The next successful man I viewed doubted the number of people who are incapable or indifferent claimed there are 99 who lack intelligent enthusiasm, and a sincere desire to serve, to every one that is eager and ambitious, conscientious and courageous.

You may not be ready to accept position of responsibility today, today is the day to begin to get ready.

And one thing that you must order to fill a vacancy is to find a man who is doing you back, and then correct faults. Give over your faults, on your shortcomings and you are yet ready for greater responsibility. You will belong to the 49 or 50.

CUSTOMS, EXCISE REVENUE GAINS

Net Increase For Fiscal Year
23 Millions, Ottawa States

Ottawa.—Customs and excise revenue for the fiscal year ended March 31, totalled $226,575,000 compared with $203,274,154 collected in 1933-34, a net increase of $23,300,846, according to a statement issued last week by Minister of National Revenue R. C. Matthews. Net receipts in detail were: customs duties $74,745,502, increase $10,111,726; excise taxes $107,554,412, increase $5,524,762; excise duties $45,225,535 increase $7,428,179. Sundry collections amounted to $79,045,251.

Net receipts for the month of March totalled $17,519,540 as against $17,979,945 collected in March, 1934, a drop of $460,405. Revenue from excise duties increased by $315,922, while receipts from customs duties excise taxes and sundry collections dropped. Collections in detail were: customs duties $4,632,317; excise taxes $7,473,473; excise duties $3,129,594; sundry collections $78,351.

OIL AND CANCER

Petroleum Classified As To Degrees Of Harmfulness

Because the mortality from cancer is high among workers in oil fields and petroleum refineries, the Manchester Cancer Committee, under the chairmanship of Dr. C. C. Turt, thought it well to give this matter its close attention.

The first step was a classification of crude oils. Russian oils proved to be the least harmful. Then came the oils from the United States.

One of the main features of the Maxim Gorki is its rotary printing press. The total weight of the press together with its motor is only 150 pounds. While the press is in flight the hourly output of the press is 1,000 leaflets per hour on both sides.

In connection with the press is a photo-developing machine, where pictures are made in three and four colors.

CANADA IS SOLE RADIUM PRODUCER IN BRITISH EMPIRE

King George Jubilee Cancer Fund To Aid In Work Of Combating The Disease.

Ottawa.—Canada is the sole producer of radium in the British Empire. The finding of large deposits of pitchblende or uraninite at Great Bear Lake, N.W.T., which are one of the principal sources of radium, is a discovery of major importance in the mineral history of Canada, this not alone because of its economic value, but because radium plays a vital part in the modern treatment of cancer.

The Great Bear Lake deposit was first discovered by Gilbert L. Hines and Charles St. Paul, who flew there on a prospecting expedition in 1920.

Pitchblende has been known to the world since 1777, and was first discovered in Bohemia. It was called pitchblende because of its appearance—a brownish to violet black color and of pitchy lustre. The radioactive properties of pitchblende are of special interest, it was not until 1783, following Klaproth's analysis, that the discovery was made that it contains the element uranium.

The fact that pitchblende is more strongly radioactive than metallic uranium led to the discovery in it of the elements radium, polonium and actinium. When pitchblende is ignited or dissolved in diluted sulphuric acid, a gas is evolved which consists largely of helium and argon. Terrestrial helium was first recognized in this mineral.

Radium is by far the most valuable, the most rare and the most inaccessible mineral resource of Canada. Hitherto the world's available supply of this precious commodity has been strictly limited; it is estimated at not more than 300 grams. Ten tons of pitchblende (7,200,000 grams) have to be refined in order to produce one gram of radium; little wonder that its cost is prohibitive for general use.

During the past year radium has sold at $24,000 a gram; at one time it was as high as $70,000. Because of its new recognized value in the treatment of cancer, its excessive cost of production is the more to be deplored. The discovery and development of this potent element in Canada should hasten the time when radium's benefits will be available to all in need thereof.

Share in wealth of vast ranch of $40,000,000 Worth Of Property Split Up Among Descendants Of Owner

Captain Christ, Tex.—The vast King ranch, stretching over an area as large as the State of Delaware has been broken up in a division of $40,000,000 worth of property among descendants of Captain Richard King, Texas revolutionary hero.

The hereditary ranch hero, Santa Gertrudis, and its adjoining property were kept intact, in accordance with a provision of the pioneer's will. It was on the site of Santa Gertrudis that King's first ranch-house and the stockade showed the muscles of the brave caudex to marauding Mexican bandits.

The present home was built by the late Mrs. King at a cost of $200,000. This property went to her daughter, Mrs. Alice Gertrud Kiborg, together with 30,000 acres in Noveborac and Kiborg Counties.

LANDMARKS DOOMED

Oliver Twist's Workhouse Is Among a Trio to Disappear

London.—Three famous landmarks photographed times without number by travellers are to disappear in the next few months. In Southwark, London, the old Mint St. Workhouse; in Prague the Blue Star Hotel, and in St. Albans the market place, have been condemned to removal.

The workhouse is said to be the last surviving building closely associated with the writings of Dickens. It housed the pauper boy Oliver Twist when he asked for "more," scenes within its walls were described by the author with such pathos that British officialdom was forced to bring about reforms. The building was erected 165 years ago. The supposed home of Bill Sykes was also in this neighborhood; it has been replaced by a model tenement.

The Blue Star Hotel is one of the most famous hostels of Europe. There the peace treaty of 1866 was signed, ending the Seven Weeks' War between Prussia and the allied forces of Austria, Bavaria, Saxony, Hanover and minor German States—a war that led toward the unification of Germany under the leadership of Prussia. The hotel register, which contains the names of emperors, of kings, princes and princesses of all the nations of Europe will be preserved.

The removal of the centuries-old market of St. Albans is designed to provide a more pleasing environment for the famous clock tower in the centre of the town. The tower, built in 1410, served for the storage of water, and before the days of telegraphy was equipped with a semaphore that picked up and forwarded messages on the London-Liverpool line. Its famous bell, bearing the inscription, "I have the name of Gabriel sent from Heaven," was cast in Rome in 1330.

When winter comes

When winter with a creaking sound is leaving roof and rafter, And down the ruts of sloping ground Run rills of silver laughter.

When the last snows, like shreds of foam, Fade ghost-like in their footness, And odors of the loosened loam Scent all the air with sweetness.

When the trees feel through every pore The curling sap go singing, And from the south comes up the rain That sets the first flowers springing.

When frost is a forgotten bark, And joy outweighs all sadness, And slowly earth puts on the garb Of greenness and of gladness.

Then winter goes, a wordless king, Lord of a lost creation, And earth lifts to the air of spring The wings of its elation.

MARIE DRESSLER'S MONEY

It appears Marie Dressler was not the wealthy woman it was thought. She was wealthy to friends, of course, and that was all that mattered to the grand old trouper. As for money, her estate is valued at fewer thousands than it was thought to be in hundreds of thousands. And now there's a fuss in Hollywood over the cost of her funeral. The undertaker was enthused over the necessity of her passing; out in movie magnificence. His bill was $10,000. Her sister, a resident in England, asserts the sum of $2,500 is considered a handsome outlay for the obsequies of a British peer.—Brandon Sun.

WINDOW MODELS

The casual passer-by at times of ten looks twice or often at models in store windows to make sure that they are not real, but in London, England, the shoppers are soon to see mannequins walking about almost any time. And in the future most of the window-shoppers will be able to do their looking under cover, which is a real advantage, especially when the weather is bad. The shopping centres of London are to be a series of arcades. Mannequins will emerge from the interior of the stores where they are already continuously on display and appear in the windows in place of the present wax figures. Success should immediately attend such an innovation.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

THE MUSICAL NOTE

A military correspondent of the London Morning Post points out that instructions recently issued by the British War Council include the teaching of singing by units as "helps men to march well even when fatigued." The writer says that he recently saw some troops tramping in drizzling rain and their spirits had fallen to zero when a song was started with this chorus: "You never know you've got it till you get it."

If you get it don't kick up a row, If anybody is ever going to get it, We've got it now."

The effect is recorded as electrical and they stepped out with wonderful elasticity. To which the fact might be added that it is not only military units which respond to a cheery note in time of storm.—Branford Expositor.

FORBIDDEN TO WOMEN

The women of China are in revolt. Not the whole 200,000,000 of them, but a sufficiently important proportion to cause considerable trouble to Chiang Kai-Shek, who is something of a dictator in China.

All because someone has undertaken to set out rules to govern the conduct of the ladies. The ladies blame Marshal Chiang and the marshal blames the local mandarins. But whoever may be to blame, it has stirred up a commotion.

And not much wonder when you consider these selections from the things that are forbidden to the women:

To take part in naked bathing. Dance with men. Smoke. Bare their legs. Work as waitresses. Wear electric frills. Walk on bare feet. Accompany their husbands to a restaurant.

Walk away with their husbands on the sidewalk. Use cosmetics. It would be interesting if the Sen Council tried to enforce these here.—Herald Star, Mar. 27.

He dashed into the police station at mid-night, explaining that his wife had been missing since eight o'clock that morning, and asking that search be made for her.
"Her description," said the sergeant, "height?"
"I—I don't know!"
"Weight?"
The husband shook his head vaguely.
"Colour of eyes?"
"Er—average, I expect."
"Do you know how she was dressed?"
"I expect she wore her coat and hat. She took the dog with her."
"What kind of dog?"
"Brindle bull terrier, weight fourteen and a half pounds, four dark blotches on his body, shading from grey to white. Round, blackish spot over the left eye, white stub tail, three white legs and right front leg brindle, all but the toes. A small nick in the left ear, a silver link collar with—"
"That'll do!" gasped the sergeant. "We'll find the dog!"

Little Girl—No'm; just a night-shirt.

Applicant—I didn't leave it; it left me.
Boss—How could that be?
Applicant—I worked in an ammunition factory and it went up in the night.

SPRING'S APPEAL
I like the flowers, birds, and bees. The tender grass and budding trees, I like all springtime, to be sure. But, best of all, the temperate air.

When a man had a birthday, he takes a day off. When a woman has one, she takes a year off.

Office boy—Yes, sir! When they get enough the firm sends them out as salesmen.

Coming home one Sunday afternoon with a string of trout, Robbie was suddenly confronted by the local minister. There was no other way of escape, but the little boy rose to the occasion. Going directly up to the minister, he said: "Minister, do you see what the trout got for rabbit worms on the Sabbath?"

Teacher—Yes; and what does a monkey do?
Jean—Climbs up a tree.
Teacher—Yes, what else?
Jean—Climbs down again.

Spring to the hillsides comes without a word.
The miracles of growth are wrought, and not a sound is heard.

The silence calls to Spring—Cooled hills before it is too late!

AN APPEAL TO THE CITIZENS OF ONTARIO

King George V. Jubilee Cancer Fund Inaugurated

A message to the citizens of Ontario from His Honor, Dr. Herbert A. Bruce, Lieutenant-Governor:—
"His Excellency the Governor-General inaugurated recently the King George V. Jubilee Cancer Fund in Canada. The citizens of every Province in this great Dominion are being invited to assist in bringing about the ultimate conquest of a deadly, relentless enemy whose shadow falls across all our lives—CANCER. I need not say how eagerly I seize this opportunity to appeal to the citizens of Ontario to do all they can to make this Jubilee year of His Majesty's accession to the throne forever glorious, forever a year of grace memorable for all time as the year when we all, in marked formation, began a well-planned attack upon cancer—the most elusive, the most secret—the most insidiously cruel—of mankind's enemies.
"The terrible annual toll cancer exacts in this province must be checked. Each year four thousand people die of cancer in Ontario, and for every one that dies there are usually three more who are suffering from this painful, malignant disease. That makes 12,000 cases of cancer annually in Ontario. The ratio of deaths from cancer has increased from 79.9 in 1914 to 114.7 in 1925—an increase of 43.9.
"The results obtained today in the treatment of cancer are so very much better than formerly that those who notice a lump or have unusual symptoms should not be deterred from consulting a doctor because of the fear that he will diagnose their case as cancer.
"In early cases surgery is still the best form of treatment, either alone or in combination with X-ray and radium. In certain regions, however, X-ray or radium is preferred and good results are obtained. Even in late cases the use of X-ray or radium will relieve pain and delay the inevitable.
"The crying need is for more research, more institutions with facilities for the scientist in his great work of investigating the cause of cancer and the discovery of a specific for its cure. There must be a 'specific' but the cause of cancer must first be discovered by exact, painstaking medical research. This research will only be possible if we all help to provide the necessary funds. When this fund is established it will enable Canada to take her place with her sister Dominions, thus making the campaign inaugurated in London twelve years ago a truly British Empire Campaign against cancer in its scope.
"However, I should make it clear that all money collected will be spent in this country.
"I appeal to all citizens in this Province to contribute $1.00 or more to the King George V. Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund for Canada.
"Will you please send your contribution direct to Lady Denbrough, who will acknowledge it. Her address is simply, Ottawa, Ontario. The chartered banks are receiving contributions for transmission to Her Excellency as a convenience to the public."

SCOUTING Here - There Everywhere

Great preparations are under way in Scouting circles throughout the Dominion for the coming visit of Lord and Lady Baden-Powell. They will arrive in Victoria April 5, and after big rallies of Scouts and Girl Guides at Victoria and Vancouver, will proceed eastward attending similar gatherings at designated centres in the various provinces.

The rally centres and dates for Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec are as follows: Brandon, Thursday, May 2; Winnipeg, Saturday, May 4; Port William, Wednesday, May 5; Sudbury, Thursday, May 5; Toronto, Saturday, May 11; London, Tuesday, May 14; Ottawa, Saturday, May 15; Montreal, Friday, May 24; Quebec, Monday, May 27.

Chatham, Ont. Scouts participated in a Rotary Club crippled children's fund campaign by operating a "Lost and Found Bureau" of Rotary members, who had to contribute something to the fund on being "found."

Honorary membership in the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association was conferred upon every invited Boy Scout of Peterborough troops at a big joint meeting of Scouts and Rotarians and members of the Fish and Game Association executive, in celebration of the Chief Scout's birthday.

The turning of a game of stalking into the real thing was the unique experience of Scouts of Nelson and Willow Point, B.C. The two troops had combined for a Saturday programme, and were playing a game of stalking through bush, when they discovered a small boy who had been lost.

The new 1st Troop of Alliston, Ont., demonstrated its grasp of Scouting community service by collecting an amount of money for the local Civic Relief Committee. The collection included underclothing, suits, overcoats, stockings, hats, caps and mittens, mostly in good condition.

By Rail to Africa Old Tunnel Project

Manchester Guardian
The idea of a Gibraltar tunnel was first conceived by a Frenchman as long ago as 1869. It has been reborn since the war in the mind of a Spanish artillery officer—Colonel Pedro Jervolino, of the Balearic garrison; and, fostered in its new form both by Primo de Rivera and by the Spanish Republic Government, it has for the past seven years been the object of deliberation by a public commission. This commission has just published its latest report. Technical, economic, international—all aspects of the scheme have in turn been considered. Not, indeed, that deliberation is at an end; the technical aspect is to be examined further in the Spring, and the Summer should hear of a definite answer to the question of the tunnel's technical feasibility.

Twenty miles in length, stretching beneath the Straits of Tunis on GENERAL — MAC — MAR. 25th the Spanish side to Punta Follera, in Morocco, and plunging at times to a depth of a thousand feet, the tunnel—if it becomes fact—will be the longest and deepest in the world. Perhaps one should use the plural form; for Spanish engineers speak of two contiguous tunnels with intermittent points of communication.

Telegraph and telephone cables would be laid; automobiles would be whisked through on flat cars; and within 30 minutes of leaving the tunnel's Spanish end electric trains would discharge their passengers at the African exit.

The potential commercial importance of the tunnel springs to the eye with Punta Follera as the focus of a number of African trunk lines, Africa's tropical products would be conveyed to European tables by an all-land route.

Four trunk lines are direct of by Spanish railroads of the scheme. Two would traverse the Sahara, one piercing Nigeria to join the nearly completed Cape-Cairo railroad at Stanleyville in the Belgian Congo, the other making its way towards the jungled coast of West Africa. The construction of both railways has been started under French direction; their completion awaits the day when the Bank of France has a governor bold enough and when the French investor is ready to expose his nose to cutting economic winds. There exists a slight doubt, a very slight doubt, as to the willingness of the French to carry the second line to Punta Follera; they might prefer to make its terminal point at Oran or Algiers.

The third line, a continuation of the present rail route from Tangiers to Marrakech, would skirt the Atlantic seaboard as far as Dakar, in Senegal. Aviation has already given Dakar geographical dignity; it is the starting point both of the German air mail and of the French air and ship mail services to South America. The fourth line, brushing the Mediterranean coast line, would prolong the French railway which now comes to a humiliatingly abrupt stop at Italy's colony of Tripolitania.

Such, then, is the vision; how possible is its realization? Economic means and technical possibility are questions that await final pronouncement. Apart from them there is that small but annoying difficulty of the seven-inch difference between the Spanish and French railway gauges. Alteration of the present Spanish track would be too costly; the construction of a new trunk route in Spain is impracticable.

What, then, can be done? Container cars might solve the problem offered by freight traffic, and there are not lacking systems permitting passenger trains to be adapted to varying gauges. Perhaps one of them will enable this subsidiary difficulty to be overcome.

What, lastly, of the international consequences of a realized Gibraltar tunnel? To Britain a British-controlled Gibraltar would acquire a new significance. To France, French colonies in Africa would be of enhanced military importance; black troops could be rushed across Europe in a matter of hours. Spain herself would recover a mood of long-lost European prestige. But glory has its price. Spain has liked to remain aloof from European troubles; she might still wish to do so; but a neutral Spain possessed of a Gibraltar tunnel would be a passive ally of France. Are Spanish "tunnel enthusiasts" to be checked by the thought?

The Home Merchant

The home merchant. Who is he? He is the chap who gives you credit when you are financially broke, and carries your account until you are able to pay.

He is the chap who gives you back your money or makes exchanges when you are not satisfied with what you have bought.

He is the chap who stands behind the guarantee and makes restoration of all losses that you may sustain on the goods you buy.

He is the chap who meets you at his door with a handshake and let you out with a message to the "kids" and a real come-again goodbye.

He is the chap who meets and greets you on the street every day in the year and takes a neighborly interest in your family and your affairs.

He is the chap whose clerks and book-keepers, and other employees live in your town and spend their money with you and other home people.

He is the chap who pays heavy taxes to help support home schools and build your town streets, and maintain the fire department, the police department and lighting service.

He is the chap who visits you when you are sick, sends flowers to your family when you die, and follows your body out among the trees and tomb, as far as human feet may travel with the dead.

He is the home merchant—your neighbour—your friend—your helper in times of need.

Don't you think that you ought to trade with him, and to his friend and his helper in the time of his need?

Don't you know that every dollar you send out of your town for merchandise is sent to strangers—to the men who never spend a dollar there to men who would not trust you for a box of matches.

Are You Run-down, Tired?

Mrs. Mabel Murphy of 113 Westbourne Ave., Apt. 4, Hamilton, Ont., said: "About ten years ago I was terribly run-down, had indigestion, couldn't sleep or eat, lost strength, and my weight fell off 20 pounds. Before I had bought the first bottle of Dr. Foy's Favorite Prescription I felt much better, had more strength and better digestion. Now sleep, appetite, and weight are all as good as new. ed to ask for relief. Grimsby's relief costs have been doubled during the present year in comparison with the same period in 1934. Such problems make the life of the Council a very worrisome one.

"The Taxpayers have, during the depression years, been very loyal and in many cases great sacrifices have been made in order to meet tax payments. The Council have cut the operating expenses to the bone wherever possible and the Town has, as a result, been able to pay its debenture debts and to hold steady. A continuance of this co-operation between the Taxpayer and the Council will carry the Town over its financial hump to better days ahead.

"In 1937 debenture debt reduction will be the order of the day and as a result a long-looked for reduction in the mill rate will follow. At present some small debentures have been paid but their effect will not be felt as the Council wishes to reduce its indebtedness to the bank and to the County of Lincoln. In the case of the latter the Town has been a year behind in paying its county rate since 1919. Some provision should have been made in those years to catch up on this item. As a result this item has cost the town many thousands of dollars in interest during the passing years and at the moment is causing considerable trouble. With Educational matters of the town, some retiring fund will have to be set up in order to catch up on the County payments and to escape interest charges.

"From a general opinion gathered from Members of the Council, Grimsby is in very good shape in comparison with many other towns and if the especially history as viewed by a Western mind. Mr. McRaye reviewed England's history under the 29 sovereigns since the Norman conquest. While other Kingdoms have fallen, and kings, good and bad, pass, it is a matter of great pride that Britain still is Britain. The idea of the "divine right of kings" is passed and King George is king by the wish of the people. He has endeared himself to his people through twenty-five years of war, depression and uncertainty. The whole Royal family have at all times manifested a sincere interest in the welfare of all classes of people. The very human side of King George is shown in his expressed desire that his jubilee be celebrated simply, with dignity and thanksgiving; gifts to His Majesty are to take the form of funds to relieve human suffering. In Canada this fund is the Cancer fund. The speaker closed by paying tribute to the souls who have contributed to the nation's greatness. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the speaker. A ladies chorus sang "Rule Britannia" and Misses Virginia Hewson and Jane Corey entertained with a vocal duet and a tap dance. Mr. Hugh Liddle also sang. At the next meeting of the Bridge Club which will be on Monday, April 15th, at 2.45 p.m., the hostesses will be Mrs. Wolfenden and Mrs. R. H. Hughes. Mrs. Wolfenden is being congratulated on once again being elected a Provincial Councillor in the I.O.D.E. at the annual meeting held in Hamilton last week.

KING GEORGE'S JUBILEE

taxpayers continue to stand loyal and do as they have in the past and with general co-operation from unemployed and all citizens, the present mill rate can be maintained for the year 1935."

Hamilton. His address, "Success, Physical and Moral," gave his hearers much to think about. He said that in his twenty-four years of police service many people had asked, "what made thieves, robbers or even murderers?" This, he said, he could not answer. The most important thought he left with the audience was that each individual could shirk up on his diet and system and all—just take the time to check up on his thoughts and mentality to see if there might be any criminal intent. He brought home to his hearers that success can only come to each individual by such right checking of themselves.

Those participating in the program were Mr. and Mrs. McBrain, Mrs. Richardson, Harry Banks, H. Miller, G. G. Bourne, Wm. Lethian, Hugh Liddle and Vera Croft.

The first president, Geo. Marr, moved a vote of thanks to the speaker.

Mr. Marshall Stonehouse and family have taken up their residence on Kidd Ave. Mr. and Mrs. Stonehouse are the parents of Mr. E. L. Stonehouse of Grimsby and come here from Toronto.

Fellow citizens and friends of Mr. E. H. Culp who has been ill for several weeks, will be pleased to learn that he is making a favorable recovery although it will be some time before he will be about.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smallwood and family have returned to their summer home on Central Ave., Grimsby Beach, after spending the winter months in Cleveland where Mr. Smallwood is a contractor.

Mrs. Welford, Mrs. Victor Cullen, Mrs. Piser, Mrs. Lethian, Mrs. Fred Marsh and Mrs. L. A. Bromley of Grimsby were among those in attendance at the Annual Meeting of the Provincial Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, held last week at Hamilton.

Mr. Humphries and daughter, Miss Humphries of Grimsby, were guests at the United Church mass over the weekend. Friends here will be pleased to know that Mr. Humphries, father of Mrs. Harbison, who recently sustained serious injuries through a fall at his home, has recovered.

Col. and Mrs. Roberts have returned from an enjoyable sojourn of several months in Florida and other southern states. Col. Roberts states that in Georgia and Carolina the peach and pear trees are in blossom while in Virginia large plantings of peaches and pears were to be observed, many of them just coming into bearing, giving promise of abundant yields. He states the weather was comparatively cool near the coast although it is reported to be very hot in some sections of the south.

The card party under the auspices of the Orla Club on Thursday evening of last week brought a successful season to a close, there being a large number present. Winners for the season were as follows: Euchre—J. M. Lawrie, H. McPherson, E. Todd, Cribbage—H. E. St. John, H. Gillespie, P. Schwab. The successful players Thursday night were: Euchre, W. Hain, T. Walker, T. Warner and P. Shelton and for cribbage, H. Lindemann, R. Coward, H. E. St. John, M. Lockhart.

At the close of the meeting of Grimsby Chapter, No. 190, O.E.S., on Tuesday, April 2nd, the refreshment committee, consisting of Mrs. A. Lipsett, convener, Mrs. J. Wray, Mrs. V. R. Farrell, Mrs. L. Jacobs, Mrs. S. Harris and Mrs. S. Wainwright, gave the other chapter members a surprise party, on the occasion of the Chapter's thirty birthday. The table was beautifully decorated with spring flowers and a lovely birthday cake. Past Matrons, Marjorie Hitchman, Jean Cloughiey, Eva Doucet and W. M. Vivian Lipsett, were presented with bouquets of sweet peas. A pleasant social evening was spent.

TO ENLARGE HALL AT ST. CATHARINES

It is estimated that in the enlarging of the city hall and police headquarters and building a public station, the whole in cost $375,000, the proceeds will provide about $40,000 relief labor cost. Hon. Mr. Croux approved of the city's plan and is sending a representative to look into certain minor details.

With the city's three undertakings and the government doubling up the post office and customs building, building will be more active in St. Catharines than for a decade past, so plans are out for some new houses. In spite of the depression there are now vacant houses in the city, really many say.

ROBERT BOOK, FORMER WARDEN, TAKEN FOR A RIDE BY COUNTY COUNCILLORS

Robert H. Book, former warden of Lincoln, ex-convict of South Grimsby and popularly known as the mayor of Smithville, was kidnapped and taken for a ride last Thursday morning. That Mr. Book rather enjoyed the proceedings does not lessen the fact as stated.

Thursday morning the members of the Lincoln county council started on their second day of county road inspection, travelling via bus. At Smithville they stopped at the lumber yard operated by Mr. Book and his sons and after several had left the bus to greet the genial ex-warden. Mr. Book was invited into the bus to meet other members of the party.

The ex-warden had reached the centre of the bus on his good will tour when the vehicle started and the kidnapping proceeded. Mr. Book entered mild protests that business was running and needed his personal attention, but the members of the council were not to be denied the pleasure of the company of one who had been greatly admired during his several years in the council. The trip continued and about an hour later the bus again reached Smithville.

As a token of appreciation for the hour's reprieve from business, the ex-warden invited the councillors into an ice cream parlor, but there was no time to spare and so the bus continued on its way to Wellandport where dinner was waiting.

THE REMARKABLE ROMANCE OF AN INDUSTRIAL DICTATOR

Velvet and Steel

By PEARL BELLAIRS

Synopsis
Jean Deshay, of humble origin, is introduced as a social equal of the Georges La Fontaines, rather than as her married secretary-companion. The latter is anxious for her to marry and intends to introduce her to Pierre Hennes, head of the Hennes Steel and Iron works.

Lord Edward proposes to Jean. And in a minute Pierre and Jean were tearing at each other through the night. The road began to climb gently at first, then steeply, until they were swinging to and fro on the long hairpins of a mountain ascent. Jean had time to accept the situation calmly. It made her furious to think that he could inflict so much discomfort on everybody by his high-handed ways. She thought she would try to enter into the spirit of the thing—tomorrow would do for letting him know what she really thought. Tonight there was a long drop over the side of the road, there was not another soul for miles, presumably, and she was decidedly nervous.

She laughed, and he glanced at her.
"No! It's to give you a chance of explaining why you look at me as though I were a cold, dead egg!"
They were hurtling along the precipitous road, and he pulled up suddenly, saying:
"Here will do as well as anywhere."

He drew the car up at the side of the road, switched off the headlights and turned on the light on the dashboard; then settling himself back in his seat he turned to look at her with mocking eyes. She tried to appear nonchalant, but she was trembling a little, even though she was amused.
"Well! What is the matter with me? Explain!"
Waiting, he lighted a cigarette, and when, under his amused eyes, she still hesitated, he said:
"Perhaps you would find it easier to explain to me in the dark."

He switched out the light on the dashboard.
"It might not be dislike for you which makes me—no you assert—look rather doubtful about you," said Jean, painfully, at last. She was determined not to say that she liked him, at the same time she knew it would only amuse him now if she told him how ill she thought of him. But some other time—later—such a revelation might teach him a lesson!

The thing to do was to evade the question if she could.
"I might be uncertain about you, I might be that I never know quite how to take you, never know when you're joking or when you are in earnest," she explained. It was as reasonable a tone as possible, and she little knew how disarming her quiet voice was.

"Do I believe that?" he asked, musingly.
He was silent, and Jean, fancying that he was a little disappointed by her compromise, had time to look about her. They were very high up and the mountain tops were outlined faintly against the stars; there was a deep valley below filled with dark and the sound of trickling water. It was very quiet, and warm, so warm that Jean threw open the great leather coat she was wearing. Poor Lord Edward! She was thinking. What would he think of her believing that she had gone off willingly in the middle of his proposal? Oh, but she would be even with this captor of hers as soon as she was safely out of his hands!

She heard Pierre Hennes laugh rudely in the dark; he stopped and said:
"I can smell dopamine."
She was surprised at a man of his type being able to recognize that sweet scent.

"I have a place on my frock," she said.
"I like it, I'll have it."
"I'll have it!" she mimicked. "Seriously, why should you?"
For answer he switched on the light on the dashboard; his face purposeful, his eyes attempting to look as grim as the rest of him, he leaned over and would have taken her by the hand from the place where it was pinned on her shoulder, had she not forestalled him. With a certain breathlessness, a twinge of very real fear, she detached the little sprig of pink flowered laurel herself, and gave it to him.

He took it and put it to his nostrils, looking at her; her hands quivered a little as she drew the coat more closely about herself; she was ashamed of her moment of terror and more exasperated than ever by him.
"Do you want it?" he asked quickly.
For answer she turned her face slightly away.
"Will you thank me nicely for it?" he asked, and when she still said nothing, he added: "Thank me nicely for it, or I'll throw it out of the car."

Keds is an insect powder. Waterloo was won on the playing fields of Wellington. Secretaries were poisoned by an overdose of welloid.

The Royal Mini is what the King puts on his new potatoes. Acrimony, which is called holy, is another name for marriage. Let's wife looked back and turned a somersault. Shakespeare lived at Windsor with his merry wives.

Two famous Scottish patriots are Robert Bruce and Edgar Wallace. Mr. Walter Scott was called the "Minister of the North."
The knight fell down an abbey that yawned in front of him. A geometer is where you put in your pennies.

When Kilgub went up to heaven, his mantlepiece fell on Elsie. A grass widow is the wife of a vegetarian.

What We Eat

When times are bad and purses are light, Canadians turn to pork for if it is meat diet, but when times are better they return to beef, according to the Dominion bureau of statistics. During the worst of the depression years the per capita consumption of pork ran from 85 pounds in 1931 to 74 in 1933 and beef from 57 to 54. But in 1934, when things were better, the consumption of pork fell to 66 pounds and beef rose to 68. It was the first year since the depression set in that the Canadian people ate more beef than pork. It was evident that, while pork might have been dearer in the worst years, they could make it go farther. Canadians eat comparatively little mutton and lamb. The per capita consumption is only six or seven lbs. And yet lamb and mutton, next to beef, is the best meat to eat.

WHAT DOES YOUR HANDWRITING REVEAL?

—O—
Mrs. L. R. writes as follows: "I am a widow with two children, and have been corresponding with a man from the West. He wishes to marry me, and although I have never seen him, his letters are so pleasant that I find myself drawn to him. He is married, but has not lived with his wife for some years, and offers to get a divorce if I accept his offer of marriage. I feel that I should remarry, because I am still young, but I naturally don't want to make a mistake. My first marriage was very happy, and my husband left me a substantial sum of money. Any help you can give me in showing what I think my correspondent is really like will be welcome."

I am sorry that I cannot be overly optimistic about your chances of making a really favourable marriage with the man who is writing to you. He is not generous—he is, as a matter of fact, of rather a narrow viewpoint; not really broadminded. He is likely to get very irritable, if not had tempered and whilst a lot of us have that little trait allied as it is in this case with narrowness of mind it shows that this man is not easy to live with.

He is rather changeable, too. He will be inconsistent, not at all stable, temperamentally, but fickle in his moods. It would be difficult to understand him at times.

Another characteristic that stands out in this man's vanity. He expresses this in his letter to you when he remarks on the number of lady friends that he has had, and whilst he is endeavouring to convey a subtle compliment to you, in that he prefers you to all the others, this also shows conceit. And his handwriting bears this out very clearly.

I mentioned that he is not very generous. I would go further and say that he is economical and cautious to the point of parsimony.

An Orderly Dog

Edmonton Journal — Occasionally observes the Edmonton Journal, there come from our courts proceedings that are not of the ordinary but that immediately command themselves to the good sense of the community.

Such a case emanated from the Calgary Police Court the other day and reveals Macintosh H. G. Scott in a Solomon-like light. He ruled that a dog going in order to fashion to the butcher shop to get his daily ration, according to his regular custom cannot be deemed to be wandering at large. Under this ruling, a charge against one John Riddick of violating a city by-law was dismissed.

Riddick admitted his dog was absent a block from his house without being under immediate restraint. He explained, however, that the 15-year-old Alredale was in the habit of going daily to a nearby butcher shop for a bone and on the occasion cited a Wednesday afternoon, the dog forgot about the butcher shop being closed for the half holiday and was standing harking at the door when observed by the police constable. Such a dog could not be described as "wandering at large," the court held. He was in lawful pursuit of his business and might be described as a purposeful dog.

"You might warn him about the early closing by-law," the magistrate advised Riddick, a remark which says the report was greeted with laughter. But why?

An intelligent dog would soon realize that his butcher shop had two "Sundays" a week, and being a purposeful and orderly dog, would act accordingly. Undoubtedly on this occasion he was not visiting his butcher to a branch of the Wednesday closing by-law. He, as his master explained, just forgot. Even humans do that, as witness the appearance of a tin of port and bones for Wednesday evening dinner.

Women Should Be Drafted For War

Cleveland—Amelia Earhart, noted aviatrix, believes women should be drafted for war just the same as men.

"Women should be used behind the lines, doing anything that able-bodied women can do," Miss Earhart said.

The aviatrix emphasized the did not wish to convey the idea that she believed in war, but that in her own case she would want to fly a fighting plane if the United States were attacked.

FRIENDS OF THE CROW DENOUNCE EFFORTS FOR HIS EXTERMINATION

(From the Chicago Daily News.)

The Illinois Department of Conservation is making war on crows. Its bombers boast of slaughtering 150,000 since the first of the year, and hope to kill 200,000 more by spring. When Mother Nature balances her accounts with these violent conservationists they may not be so proud. She has a way of demonstrating the wisdom of her own order that frequently has made her human revolutionaries appear very foolish.

There are two major counts in the indictment of the crow. He helps himself to the farmer's grain with an almost insulting bravado, and he kills the young of our lovely songbirds. We fear that a verdict of "guilty" must be rendered on both those counts. But there is something to be said in mitigation of his offenses.

Against his thefts of grain should be set his insatiable appetite for rodents and other small mammals, for insects and cutworms. One authority declares that he "amply repays the farmer for what he takes by destroying the vermin in the fields." Fewer crows, more mice and cutworms—no nature may take toll for man's interference.

It is less easy to palliate the crow's criminal assaults on the nests of other birds, but many ornithologists hold that murderous offenses are rare—much rarer, probably, than man's violence to members of his own species. Possibly the human race should be exterminated—some pest-control philosophers have suggested as much—but the majority is still opposed to a remedy so drastic.

Generally the crow is conceded to be the most intelligent of birds. Captured when young he soon becomes fearlessly familiar with human folk. He is discriminating, picking whom he will for company, and rascally avoiding those he dislikes. Always he remains a rascal, a lovable rascal, cockily independent and impenetrably predatory.

Only a mind insensitive to nature's moods could look unmoved upon the etched beauty of the scene when, as the setting sun hangs on the dark edge of the distant woods, the crows come cawing from the fields in flock formation to merge with the mystery of the lengthening shadows. Some of us would spare them for the sake of that thrill. But a more practical defense rests on the part they play in the economy of nature with which man meddles at his peril.

GIRL GUIDES

Australian Writer Asks More Sympathy For Movement. — Suggests Change In Uniforms.

An appeal for more public appreciation of the Girl Guide movement and suggestions for changes in the uniform to make it more attractive and comfortable to various climates are made by "Vesta," women's editor of The Melbourne Argus, following the recent visit of the Chief Scout and Chief Guide, Lord and Lady Baden-Powell, and the various celebrations in Australia.

The article says: "Why is it the Girl Guides have failed to enslave the sympathy and enthusiasm that has been poured out unsparringly on the Scouts? Why is it they find it difficult to obtain an adequate number of suitable Guides?"

"It is not enough to say that the Guide movement is younger than the Scouts. It has to be admitted that the movement in Australia has not even begun to rouse any fervid sentiment in the public at large, and that women generally have still to be convinced of its value to the individuals composing it and to the community outside."

The Australian writer declares those who have been responsible for the building up of the Guide organization have had to meet a strong though silent opposition due to the persistence of the idea that girls should spend as much of their time as possible in their own homes, and that anything, except school, that takes them out of their homes is likely to have a bad influence on them.

"Notwithstanding the fact that many forms of recreation and pleasure do in any case take girls frequently out of their homes, and notwithstanding the fine moral influence that the Guide precepts and laws should exercise, this objection is still frequently met with and persisted in, however reasonably and logically it may be answered," the article says.

"Personally, I was much disappointed that with so many Guides gathered together here, there was no occasion on which the public could see them in their strength, independently of the boys. My own impression was that the various companies of Guides are kept too busy sight-seeing in addition to their camp activities."

The Argus women's editor declares: "The present uniform is in many cases neither becoming nor neat, so that it is impossible to regard it with much pride. It is most unsuitable, too, in our hot weather, which calls for something light in color as well as light in weight. I understand that it is permissible to use lightweight materials in summer; but navy blue is a color which does not look well in thin, cheap materials, and a Guide uniform must be inexpensive."

The writer observed that "some of the Australian women Cubmasters looked very well in their pleated khaki skirts and blouses, and some shade of dark fawn might be found practical for Guides."

"Not all countries have adopted the navy blue uniform, so that there is no reason why we should adhere to it," the editor says. "The black stockings worn with it, too, are both hot and ugly; and I am sure that the movement would benefit if some uniform more becoming and more adapted to our climate could be devised. A normal girl likes to look her best, and it would probably be found easier to obtain Guides also if they were not asked to assume a uniform which few of them really like."

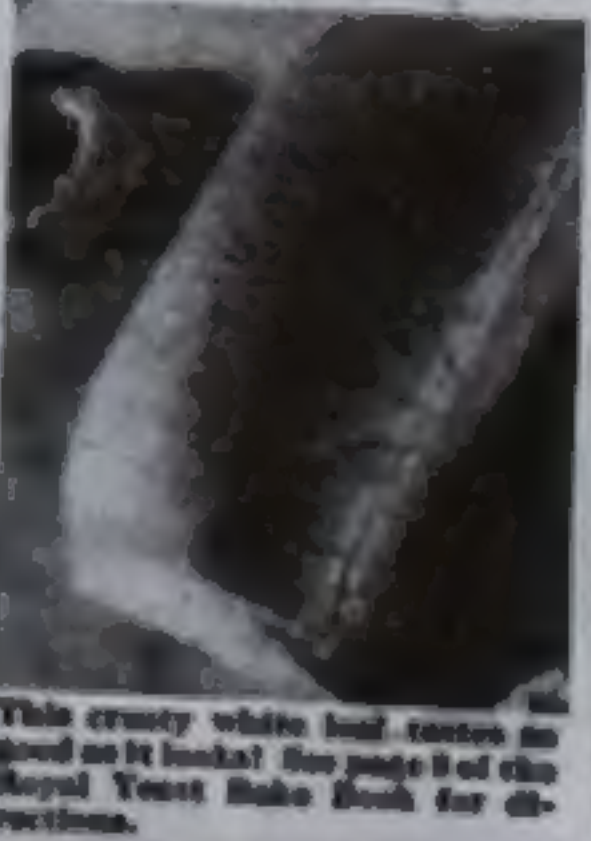

Duchess Of Kent "Sweetest Girl One Could Wish To Know"

Miss Florence Forrest, of Fort Hope, Ontario, who has been in Jamaica all winter the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Lewis Emery, Jr., had the honor of being invited by the Duke and Duchess of Kent for luncheon at "Sunset Lodge" where they have been spending their honeymoon. "Sunset Lodge" is the attractive bungalow which is chateau-like. Mrs. Emery put—with the staff of servants—at the command of the Royal couple.

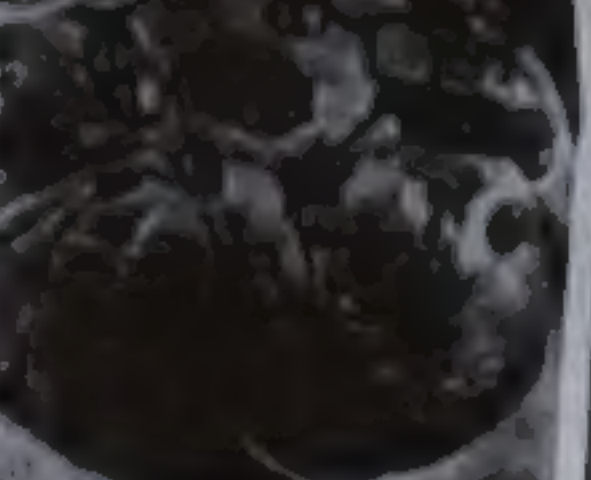

Writing to her mother in Fort Hope, Miss Forrest describes the Duchess of Kent as "extremely beautiful and wonderfully charming—just the sweetest girl one could wish to know." Of the Duke of Kent she said: "He is tall and fair, has curly hair and blue eyes and is so stilled, as his pictures seem to make him." They made her very much at home, and this young woman who was called to the Bar in September last, and will upon her return take up the practice of law.

If you envied someone their dainty beauty last summer, you should quickly get started on your pair now and be all ready to show them off at Easter time. This pair is especially lovely, the simplicity of its design making the work progress rapidly, as well as giving them smartness. The cuff is especially attractive because of the dainty crocheted roses that stud it. Incidentally, that cuff design would make a delightful collar.

Pattern 778 comes to you with complete directions for making the gloves in a small, medium and large size; illustrations of the gloves as shown and of all stitches used, as well as material requirements. Send twenty cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) for this pattern to Needlecraft Dept., Wilson Publishing Company, 72 Adelaide Street West, Toronto.

the Vitae.
He knew not learned was
The birds of the air and the
of the field,
And all the nice fishes the ocean would yield.
The roots of the soil and the fruits of the tree,
Just what, at the moment, there happened to be,
My grandmother cooked in propentious lots
That simmered all day in great orcinated pots.

To eat in those days synchronised with "to stuff";
Whatever the fare there was always enough.

As grandfather's board in the district was known,
As one of the kind well accused to groan, Twas seldom the family dined by themselves,
But grandmother always had wel-laden shelves, Indigestible foods on the table ran riot,
For no one suspected the use of a diet.

Well, what of this gorging on unbalanced fare,
And giving their organs no specialised care,
And having no bottles or pills to offset

The poisons in all the rich foods that they eat,
And having no doctor within easy
call?

My grandmother, after a very bad
fall,

Was tucked into bed in a serious state,

And departed this life when a bare ninety-eight;

While grandmother wiled and waited away

And died ere the dawn of her hundredth birthday.

The neighbours 's whom they had meant to be kind

Died too, when and how I can not call to mind.

But certainly none of them knew of the facts

Of a lifelong abuse of the digestive tracts.

And often, when breakfasting on orange juice,

I feel that my inards could stand the abuse

That hot cakes and bacon and eggs would supply.

But expert opinion I'm scared to defy.

The Odd Thing About Nian Is Man

Men are funny creatures.
The man who hollers because his wife must get two permanent waves a year, and visit the hairdresser once a week in between times Is often the same man who stretches out luxuriously in the barber's chair, prepares for a sneeze and says: "Give us the works." He gets a shave, haircut, massage, special lotion on the face, tonic for the bald spot and a gooey mixture to plaster down the hairs which remain. He pays a check of $1.50 without a blink and tips the barber a quarter.

Men are funny creatures.
The fellow who insists on budgeting the household expen-tures for economy's sake, and pays her own way to the movies out of the house allowance, and buying her own hats and dresses out of her allowance, and setting aside so much for cosmetics, permanent waves, hoiery, li gerie and sweets.

Is usually the same man who borrows from wife for carfare or cigarettes towards the end of the week, or is first to suggest a blow-out when his is flush. In other words, economy is a great racket—for wife to practice.

The husband who worries over wife's toothache, and insists that she see the dentist first thing in the morning and have it fixed up . . .

Is usually the same man who hides his own toothache as long as possible, tells wife irritably to "mind her own business" when she suggests that he visit the dentist, and then takes two or three weeks to screw up sufficient courage to have the aching tooth removed.

The man who detests wife's new dress because it is "too loud" . . .

And the chap who refuses to consider the purchase of a long-desired electric refrigerator for wife . . .
Will be the first to hiss when new cars come out in the winter.

Yes, men are funny creatures. We can't understand 'em. We can't understand 'em. We can't understand 'em. We can't understand 'em.

Milk and Water

WATER.

For real success with poultry plenty of fresh water is absolutely necessary. The fact that the body of a hen contains from 85% to 90% and the egg about 65% of water indicates its necessity. Chicks gain in weight very rapidly and much of this gain is due to the increase in water in their make up, hence an adequate supply of water is of supreme importance in poultry feeding. Lack of water soon results in lowered egg production; in fact the lack of water will cause disease and equally as fast as starvation.
Water helps to regulate the body temperature by evaporation through the lungs and air sacs. Just here I might remind the reader of the fact that neither chicks nor young hens relish ice cream or cold drinks.
Ice cold water lowers the temperature of the body, it chills and tends to hold up egg production. The intelligent dairy farmer does not give his milker ice cold water, neither does a kindly spirited fellow give his horse in the morning a bit frost-filled, no, he plunges it in water first. Why then give your hens ice cold drinks and quench the laying incentive. Let them enjoy plenty of fresh-lyed water.

MILK.

Concise investigation and experiments have shown that there are certain unknown quantities in feeds which give them the power to make the young animal grow. These obscure properties have been termed vitamins, and what is of special interest to all poultry feeders is the fact that they are found in the yolks of eggs, in the green leafy part of plants and in milk. These vitamins are designated by the letters of the alphabet: A, B, C, D, E. Vitamin A has been termed the growth promoter. Young chicks deprived of vitamin A will not grow. The lack of it in a feed results in lowered egg production and hatch-ability.

It is extremely fortunate for the farmer that milk is one of the easily accessible sources of vitamins. Vitamin A in a given volume of milk is about equally divided between the fat globules and the aqueous portions. This means that skimmed milk contains about half as much vitamin A as whole milk and is about one-third as rich in vitamin A as is butter fat. Thus skimmed milk is an important source of vitamin A.
Dried milk is also an important source of vitamin A. During the first eighteen hours in the brooder keep a constant supply of sour skim milk before your chicks. The second day in the brooder continue with the sour skim milk and from the third day to the seventh begin keeping a fresh water supply before them. Continue this until the middle of the third week, yes, and throughout the whole of the rearing period the skim milk is most beneficial. Buttermilk, if available, is probably as good and, if neither skim milk nor buttermilk is available, milk products such as milk albumin, milk powder or what is called semi-solid butter milk may be used.

Semi-solid buttermilk is buttermilk dried to the consistency of cream, which is diluted with water when used.

Of course young chicks love the liquid milk; it stimulates their appetites and they grow. Experiments have proven the sour milk preferable as it is more easily digested and containing lactic acid is somewhat more palatable; it acts also as an internal disinfectant.

One who knows, says: "Feed milk liberally as a forerunner and supplement with powdered buttermilk."

HINTS

HOUSING YOUR CHICKS

Keep the chicks in the shipping boxes in a room free from draughts or extremes of heat and cold until the evening of the day they arrive.
Do not put the chicks under the brooder until after dark, and handle carefully to avoid injury. By waiting until evening they will remain quiet over night and by morning will be accustomed to their new quarters.
When placed in the brooder during the day they become nervous and excited and often crowd in the corners and are crushed to death.
Maintain temperature of 82 degrees for a few days, then reduce gradually.

A FEW DON'TS

Do not feed chicks at all until the chicks are at least 24 hours old.
Do not feed cold water or most scraps in chicks.
Do not feed hard-boiled eggs.
Do not overfeed chicks scratch.
Do not use metal containers when feeding milk.

When chicks are 48 hours old give them warm water in dripping fountains and sprinkle a little clean bird sand or chick grit on papers or boards. Make sure each chick gets a drink. Keep them warm and comfortable. Protect from disturbance and draught.
Wait 4 to 6 hours after giving the water and sand, then place Blatchford's Chick Mash before the birds.

Intake Not Affected By Present Low Water Supply Safeguarded

Chairman Arthur Hewson of the Grimsby Water Commission states that he has never seen the water at the lake front so low. In order to guard against the possibility of low water the Commission in 1928 constructed a new intake which was placed 750 feet from the shore. When it was built it was so located that the top of the intake would be ten feet below the lowest water level recorded. Even with the record low water of this year the intake is therefore not affected, and Grimsby's water supply is duty safeguarded.

Runaway Lads Found In Car At Grimsby Returned To Homes

Chief Constable De Mille was called to the Penfold residence, 242 Main Street west, about 10.30 o'clock last Thursday night to take charge of two young lads who were discovered by a member of the family, sleeping in the rear seat of their car in the barn. The boys, John McDevitt, aged 13, and Fred Hill, aged 14, both of Toronto, had run away from home Wednesday morning and told Chief De Mille that they were trying to get to the United States where they were seeking jobs. They stated that on Wednesday night they slept in a barn on the Toronto-Hamilton Highway and on Thursday, walked to Grimsby. They claimed the only things they had had to eat were a couple of apples that a woman gave them Wednesday evening. Chief De Mille was quick to recognize young McDevitt from radio broadcasts he had heard during the day as a boy being sought by parents and the police.

They were returned to their homes on Friday morning.

The Week's News of The Surrounding District

BEANSVILLE

A valuable lilac shrub was destroyed on the high school grounds recently by a truck driven over it. The board decided to accept $15 from the liability company in compensation for the damages. The Students' council will plant two more trees again this year on the high school grounds as a memorial to the 1904-35 class.

The Clinton Agricultural society in making extensive alterations and improvements to the race track on the fair grounds. The course was one of the best half-mile tracks in the district, but the society intends to make it even better than it has been.

Little more than routine business was transacted by the Board of Education Friday night. Salaries and accounts totalling $2,479.58 were ordered paid. Earth will be bought for the ornamental trees on the lawn of the high school, and prices for painting the principal's house will be secured. An offer by the Electric Transport Company to pay for a lilac bush which it crushed was accepted at $15. The report of the high school principal showed an average attendance of 124.3 out of 174, with a percentage of 90.1. The public school has had an average of 102 percent out of 192. Request for two baseballs, a football cover, and some flags was granted. The school nurse's report showed 83 percent practicing health habits out of 294 inspections. All conditions of cleanliness were good.

The final programme of the season was presented Friday night by the Lake Shore Home and School Literary Society and brought a crowd which packed the school house.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Baptist Parsonage here on Thursday, when Rev. H. W. Wright united in marriage Mr. Walter Hoenberger, of Vineland, and Miss Hazel Ecker, of Camden. After a short honeymoon the happy couple will reside in Vineland.

At the chief constable's annual revolver shoot held recently, Provincial Officer D. Darby of Beamsville hung up a total of 282 points. The highest score made by any member of the two provincial teams was 296.

The final programme of the season was presented last night by the Lake Shore Home and School Literary society before a large gathering.

Councillor W. C. Mackie, who has been confined to his home for a week, hopes to be on hand for the important council meeting on Monday night.

The date for the annual "At Home" of the alumni of Beamsville High School, has been announced as April 20.

The gas tank in front of McArthur's hardware is being exposed for repairs. This time, the work will be finished up by cementing over the curb and boulevard, making a marked improvement in the street.

The hilarious comedy "Here Comes Charlie" was presented in the town hall last week by the young people of the Jordan Station United Church, under the auspices of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Beamsville.

Mrs. Frank Sutherland was rushed to the Hamilton General Hospital on Saturday morning for an operation. Her condition on Monday morning was reported as fairly good.

VINEMOUNT

The Vinemount Choral Society which has been under the capable direction of F. W. Timms for the past six months is presenting a concert in the Vinemount Community Hall on Tuesday, April 16. The society is unique in being a purely rural one, not having even a village pupil upon which to draw. The membership has been drawn from the Lee section, Tapscott, Tweedside, Rock Chapel and Vinemount and a very interesting program of choruses is promised at the concert. There will also be numbers by assisting artists as well as by some of the members of the society.

SMITHVILLE

Gertrude Isabelle, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bergsma, fell while roller skating on the highway near E. Taylor's farm on Friday and fractured her wrist and cut the right side of her face badly. A passing motorist took the injured girl to a doctor's office where she received treatment.

The South Grimsby council made an inspection of all roads in the township, and found them in good shape for this time of year. Kenneth Milne was appointed assistant superintendent to help John E. Monaghan on the county roads.

HOCKEY HISTORY OF THE FRUIT BELT

(By "Bones")

Some time ago I received the below appended letter, which is self-explanatory. The writer Frank Unwin is well known in this district, having lived here for a great number of years. He is a brother of J. W. Unwin and a brother-in-law of Reggie Nelson.

12 East 97th Street,
New York, N.Y.

Dear "Bones":
I was very much interested to read your account of the "Fruit Kings" doings in the Independent, under "Hockey History Ten Long Years Ago", and thought perhaps you and your readers might be interested to know a little further back as to how the game of hockey originated in Canada and eventually reached Grimsby.

When I moved to Lindsay in the year 1890 hockey had just been started by a man named Jack Barron (who afterward became Judge Barron), who had learned the game when he was in Ottawa as a member of Parliament. Lord Stanley, I remember correctly, was then Governor General, and his son, who had just arrived in Canada, introduced the game in Ottawa. They had learned it in England where it had been played for many years (rather crude, no doubt, compared to the present game). Jack Barron introduced the game to Lindsay when on his Christmas holidays in 1899. The following year the Lindsay team went to Montreal and won. I was to have played but was prevented, as my brother, Jack Unwin, was coming to Lindsay to visit me. The next year they beat us, which was to be expected.

I then moved to Barrie in 1892 and there with a friend, Pro Joyce, a young lawyer, started the game in an open rink which we had raised the funds to build. I shall never forget while practicing one night with the thermometer forty degrees below zero almost all the players had their feet frozen quite badly.

I then moved back to Grimsby in the spring of 1903 and that fall with Billy Gibson started the game in Grimsby. Our first practice game was on a pond down a lane (now called St. Andrew's Avenue) and over the railroad bridge down in the woods near the lake. Following are a few of the boys in that first game, Billy Gibson, Jack Gibson, Reg. Nelson, one of the Hand boys, and Billy Smith, who was goalkeeper and a good one for those days. The others I can not name now, I am sorry to say.

Shortly afterwards Billy Gibson wanted me to drive down with him to Beamsville and start the game there, which we did, and later we did likewise in Jordan.

I played on the Grimsby team in a few matches, although my only claim to being a player was my ability to stand on my feet when body checked, until I had my nose broken by a puck playing against the Jordan team. On my arrival home with my face taped up with adhesive plaster my wife refused to allow me in the house until I had sworn off hockey for good. I did, however, act as referee, in which capacity I think I was in more danger than when playing.

It might be of interest to you to know that one of the original Lindsay team was a young chap called Bucky Knowlton who afterwards in about 1909 introduced hockey in New York. For this he was later presented with some emblem which he always wore.

From one who likes to call himself an old Grimsby boy.

Frank M. Unwin.

"Consciousness of right—being brings its own reward; but not amid the smoke of battle is merit seen and appreciated by lookers-on."

—Mary Baker Eddy.

SPORTGRAPHICALLY —SPEAKING—

—Bones—
Hats off to Grimsby's native son, Marvin "Cyclone" Westworth.

The great Stanley Cup series is over and Montreal Maroons are champions of the world, and "Our Boy Marvin" was the scintillating, goal getting, heavy thumping hero of the series.

Never has the Fruit Belt watched and followed a Stanley Cup series as they have the one just finished; nor have they raved, cursed and rooted harder for any player than they did for Marvin.

Always a steady, heady player but never a flashy, colorful one, Cyclone came through in the last three games like a Babe Ruth. The defensive work of the last that Roy Farrell brought up from the frog ponds and the Forty Mile creek was one hundred per cent. perfect while offensively he arose to heights never yet attained by a defenceman in a Stanley Cup series. Three goals and three assists is a record for them all to shoot at.

Marvin, broad, born, raised and educated on the banks of The Old Forty has brought honor and glory to himself, his family and his town. We are proud of this lad and rejoice with him on his great accomplishments.

To his father and mother James M. and Jessie, we extend the heartiest congratulations on their son's success and hope that he may continue to bring happiness and joy to them as they near the sunset of life.

Space this week does not permit of giving a complete story of this boy's fight from the lowest to the highest point in hockey fame, but such will be printed in full next week.
